Andy Walsh Fights Andy Stevenson To Night—McPadden-Yanger Bout Still Indefinite.

WASHINGTON WON AN EASY VICTORY.

Defeated St. Louis University in Final Game of Season by Score of 29 to 5.

SMITH PLAYED GREAT GAME.

Myrtle and Maroon's Leader Made Two Touchdowns and Was Principal Ground Gainer of the Day.

In the final football game of the local season Washington University defeated the St. Louis University football eleven at League Park yesterday afternoon. The score was 29 to 5 in favor of Coach Boynton's charges.

Although St. Louis University was defeated, its players did nobly and they deserve full credit for their valiant stand.

During the first half they made a good game fight and put up a remarkable defense. At the close of this half the score stood 10 to 5 in favor of Washington. One of Washington's scores, however, was made on a goal from placement, while the other was the result of a rather accidental play, Krause falling on the oval back of the St. Louis line.

In the second half Washington began to assert its supremacy. Its line-men were evidently reserving themselves. Hardly had the whistle blown for the recommencement of hostilities when the warriors of the myrtle and maroon hurled themselves, catapult like, against the overstrained defense of the St. Louis University. Each tackle back gave them from two to twenty yards.

Washington depended mainly on the "man-on-tackle play" for their gains.

Captain Smith was the lion of the day. Hardly was the echo of the signal caller's voice die away when the blond captain of the myrtle and maroon would dive through an opening for a gain.

His offense was magnificent. The play was easy. Without hesitancy he made distance each time the coveted oval was placed in his hands. If Smith should never play another game his spectacular work yesterday will gain for him an enviable reputation in the annals of the local gridiron. He was easily the star of the day.

His work was clean-cut and fast. He seemed to be the right man in the right place. He played the game with the assurance of a moose tracking through a drift.

MANY ROOTERS PRESENT. Both sides had their rooters out in full force. Near the center of the grand stand a constant waving of red and maroon pennants kept time with the unending strains of the music played by the band from the medical department of Washington University.

The local rooters of the St. Louis University contented themselves with vocal music, but they put enough spirit into their songs to drown the Washington University band on more than one occasion.

With the score 5 to 0 against them, the warriors of the myrtle and maroon engaged in a playful moment of tactics with adherents of the blue and white near the south end of the grand stand. No one was hurt, however, and when the game was over the best of good feeling prevailed.

MYRTLE AND MAROON WINS TOSSE. Washington won the toss and chose the south goal. Norton kicked off for the St. Louis University eleven, sending the ball to Washington's ten-yard line.

In the early stages St. Louis played a hurricane game, and after five minutes of actual playing Sam Campbell went over Washington's line for the first touchdown of the day.

With the score 5 to 0 against them, Boynton's charges went at their work with a will. With the fortune of battle varying, Tolson, the myrtle and maroon's full back, kicked on the third down. The ball went back of the St. Louis line, but Deane's man failed to get the ball. Quick as a flash the speedy Krause threw his body over the line and the Washington kicked goal.

Just before the close of the first half Tolson lifted the ball over St. Louis' line for a kick from placement. At this stage of the game Campbell, who was playing full back for St. Louis, was playing full back for St. Louis, but luck was on the other side.

For Washington the entire line was playing fast. Big human at left tackle was a name to remember. The St. Louis line made no impression on him with their tackle play. Luckey also did nicely. The St. Louis line made no impression on him with their tackle play. Luckey also did nicely.

With the ball near the center of the field, the score standing 10 to 5 in favor of Washington.

U. W. opened the second half by kicking to St. Louis' five-yard line. St. Louis made a three-yard gain and then kicked to the center of the field. Captain Smith rumpled, but fortunately fell on the oval. Tolson caught the ball and carried it twenty yards. Lewis followed with a three-yard gain on a pretty play, with the ball on the Washington side. Tolson carried the ball over the line on a mass tackle play. Tolson kicked goal.

HIS FEARLESS LINE-BUCKING WAS FEATURE OF 'VARSITY GAME.

Ready for a tackle buck. One of the best ground-gaining plays seen on a local gridiron this season.

CARDINALS MAY GET STAR PITCHER

Rumor That Selee Intends to Allow Jack Taylor to Come Here.

HAD TROUBLE WITH MANAGER.

Colts' Veteran Slabman Said to Be in Bad Standing With Officials and Must Leave the Team.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 2.—Information leaked out here today to the effect that Manager Selee of the Chicago Colts has entered into negotiations with the St. Louis National League Club for the sale of Pitcher Jack Taylor.

Taylor has gotten himself in bad with the Chicago management. Although he had a good season, he had quarreled with the management, and from an inside source it is learned that Selee intends to let Taylor out.

Taylor should prove a valuable man to St. Louis should the Robison succeed in landing him. He is a veteran pitcher, who has a very cool head, and is considered one of the steady pitchers in the National League.

Chicago fans like Taylor, and will be surprised to learn that the local management intends to trade him.

Some time ago Taylor was a rumor out to the effect that Selee tried to trade Taylor to Cincinnati for Seymour. Both Taylor and Seymour denied the story. Just what the Robisons have to give for Taylor remains to be seen, but a Chicago source says that Taylor will figure in a trade for Taylor.

When asked by a Republic representative if St. Louis should be Robison's success in landing him, he is a veteran pitcher, who has a very cool head, and is considered one of the steady pitchers in the National League.

LAMP LIGHTER BEAT WITFUL AND ANCKE

Lamp Lighter Filly Beat New Orleans Talent a Shock by Winning the Handicap.

BIG BEN ROMPED IN THE MUD.

Had No Trouble in Defeating New York in the Sprint Feature—Rainland Had to Be Hustled to Beat Exclamation.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 2.—Lamp Lighter furnished the talent with something to talk about when she beat Witful and Ancke in the fourth race today. There was a heavy plume of Ancke, who opened at 2 and was backed to 5 to 1. When the smart money made its appearance on Ancke, the general public decided to make a sure thing of it, and backed Witful for the place.

Lamp Lighter was much the best and raced her field to pieces, one by one. Ancke, Maister and Witful all took a turn chasing Lamp Lighter, and the latter finally ran all three of them to a complete standstill. Witful was the last of the trio to make a bid for the end of the race. She came in the stretch and was only beaten half a length in a driving finish. Maister had no excuse, and when the game was over the best of good feeling prevailed.

Washington won the toss and chose the south goal. Norton kicked off for the St. Louis University eleven, sending the ball to Washington's ten-yard line.

FITZ IS EAGER TO FIGHT CORBETT

Old Gladiator Says He Would Like to Knock the Conceit Out of His One-Time Rival.

Will Meet No One Else.

Admits His Fighting Days Are Over and That His Hands Have Gone Back on Him, but Says He Can Still Lick Jim.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Bob Fitzsimmons is in town, and while he says he has retired from the ring, it is easy to see that he is asking to get a crack at Jim Corbett. Fitzsimmons says Corbett is the only man in the game he will fight, and he wants to fight him out of revenge.

"I would like to do some business with Corbett," said Lanky Bob. "It took me three years to get a chance at him once, and I beat him good and plenty. There are those and good judges, too—who say that Corbett isn't what he was. I am willing to admit that my fighting days are over. My hands are not as good as they used to be, and I have come to the age where nature will overcome will power. But I am good enough to return to the ring at any time Corbett wants to fight, and I will knock all the conceit out of him, even if I am an old man."

Fitzsimmons confirms the report that he is to open a cafe here. After a short rest in the Auditorium, Fitzsimmons met a track today and some of his sport was witnessed. The mile handicap was one of the main attractions. Beau Ormonde, the favorite, led for a time, but at the half-mile pole began to drop back.
